

WE FEED THE UK OPEN HOUSE

10 MAY // 10:00 - 17:00

Johannah Churchill's scan of an earthworm.

AT A GLANCE

MPF ARCHIVE TOUR // MPF GALLERY

11:00-11:45

Martin Parr

AGRARIAN LOCALISM // RPS AUDITORIUM

11:00 - 11:45

Helen Keys, Chris Smaje

FISHING: IN DEEP WATER // RPS AUDITORIUM

12:00 - 12:45

Phil Haughton, Caroline Bennett, Joff Hicks

ARTIST TALK // RPS GALLERY

12:00 - 12:45

Andy Pilsbury, Johannah Churchill

A FISH CALLED JULIE TOUR // MPF GALLERY

13:45 - 14:15

Louis Little

GRAIN REBELS // RPS AUDITORIUM

13:45 - 14:45

Fred Price, Rosy Benson, Katie

Hastings, Gerald Miles, Nick Saltmarsh

ARTIST TALK // RPS GALLERY

14:45 - 15:30

Yvette Monahan, Johannes Pretorius

SEED DIVERSITY FOR RESILIENCE // RPS AUDITORIUM

15:30 - 17:00

Dan Saladino, Dr Debal Deb

PLUS

LIVE POETRY FROM THE HOT POETS

POP-UP PORTRAITS EXHIBITION

PLANT-BASED STREET FOOD FROM STOKED

BEER FROM LOST AND GROUNDED

BREAD AND BAKES FROM FIELD BAKERY

PLANTING WORMS WITH NEVILLE PORTAS

SEED SAVING WITH ADAM ALEXANDER

FINE ART PAPER FROM HAHNEMÜHLE

GALLERY TOURS

MPF ARCHIVE TOUR

MPF GALLERY // 11:00 - 11:45

A tour of the MPF collection with Martin Parr. Join renowned photographer Martin Parr as he delves into the Foundation's archive to bring you photographic prints and portfolios relating to farming and food production. Featuring cider makers, allotmenters, and The Book of Bread, highlights include works by photographers Robert Darch, Tessa Bunny and Chris Killip.

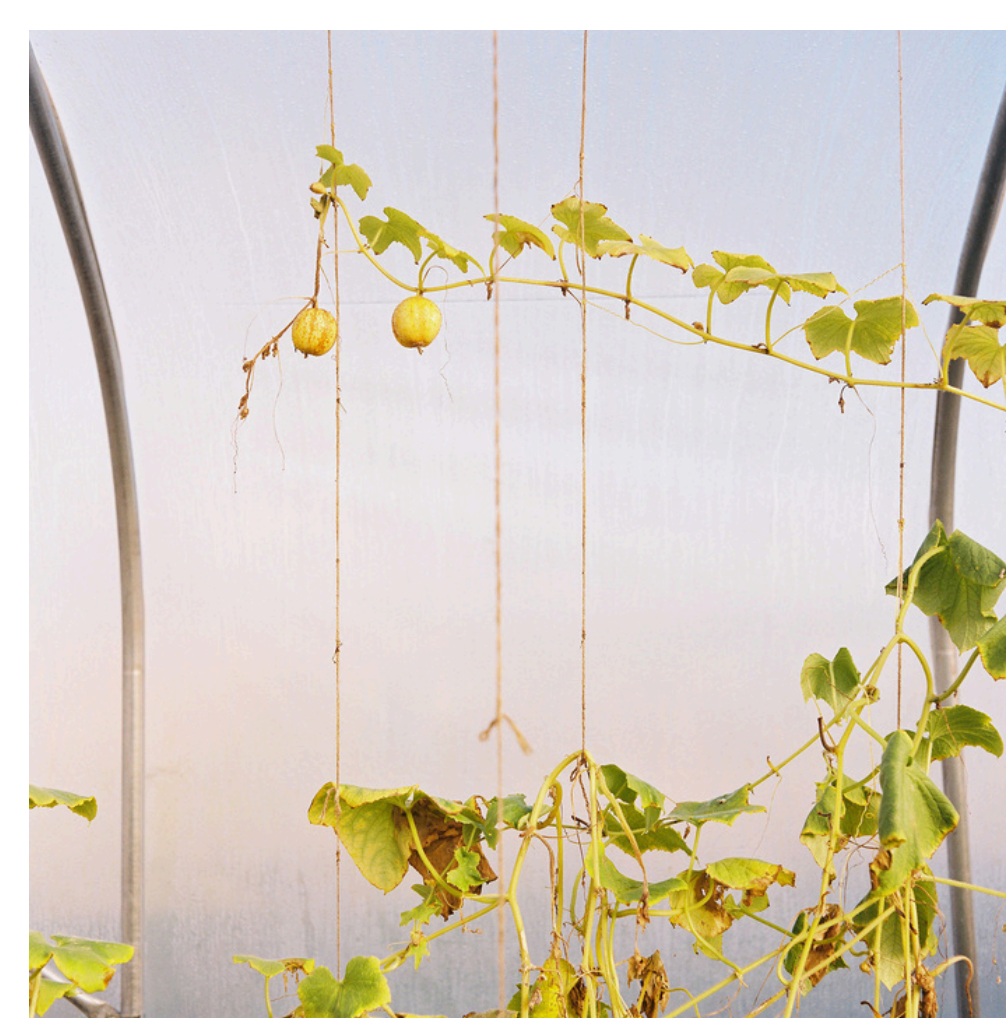

ARTIST TALK // RPS GALLERY

12:00 - 12:45

Andy Pilsbury photographed The Penpont Project, an intergenerational nature restoration initiative in Wales for his We Feed The UK commission. Johannah Churchill documented Wharmley Farm in Northumberland, where the dung beetles and earthworms are writhing in newly restored, fertiliser-free soil. Here, the photographers will tour the work they produced, sharing more from beyond the lens.

Joff and his son Indigo holding up handmade withie pots, photographed by Jon Tonks.

Polytunnel at Lauriston Farm in Edinburgh, photographed by Sophie Gerrard.

A FISH CALLED JULIE TOUR

MPF GALLERY // 13:45 - 14:15

Join Louis Little, Head of Production at Martin Parr Foundation, on a journey through Jon Tonks' commission for We Feed The UK, A Fish Called Julie, now showing at the Martin Parr Foundation. Hear from Louis on the editing and production process, and witness stories of the fisherfolk preserving livelihoods, culture, and marine life; all nourished by our shared waters. For over 18 months, Jon Tonks has documented his encounters with the fishing world, and those trying to act more sustainably in waters off Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly.

ARTIST TALK

RPS GALLERY // 14:45 - 15:30

James Robinson's family have been tending to the ancient hedgerows on Strickley Farm in Cumbria for generations. Across the water, on Mallon Farm in County Tyrone, Helen Keys and Charlie Mallon are reviving the Irish tradition of growing flax for linen. Photographers Yvette Monahan and Johannes Pretorius discuss their experiences documenting life on these farms for We Feed The UK.

PANELS

AGRARIAN LOCALISM

RPS AUDITORIUM // 11:00 - 11:45

A small farm future featuring diversification into fibre production. We Feed The UK protagonist Helen Keys is reweaving ultra-local supply chains in Northern Ireland. She has transformed Mallon Farm into a patchwork of nature-friendly food and flax for linen. Joined by Chris Smaje, author of A Small Farm Future, this discussion will explore how agrarian localism can accelerate our journey towards a climate-friendly food system.

FISHING: IN DEEP WATER

RPS AUDITORIUM // 12:00 - 12:45

Exploring the pathway to sustainable fishing and coastal livelihoods. Phil Haughton, Founder of Better Food and author of Food for Thought, is joined by Caroline Bennett from Sole of Discretion to untangle the knotty subject of sustainable fishing. Joff Hicks, who features in Jon Tonks' exhibition for We Feed The UK, A Fish Called Julie, shares his experience of making traditional withy lobster pots as part of his commitment to reducing plastics in our oceans.

Charlie Mallon looking out across the fields at Mallon Farm, County Tyrone, photographed by Yvette Monahan.

Trial plots at Gotherley Farm, Somerset, photographed by Lúa Ribeira.

GRAIN REBELS

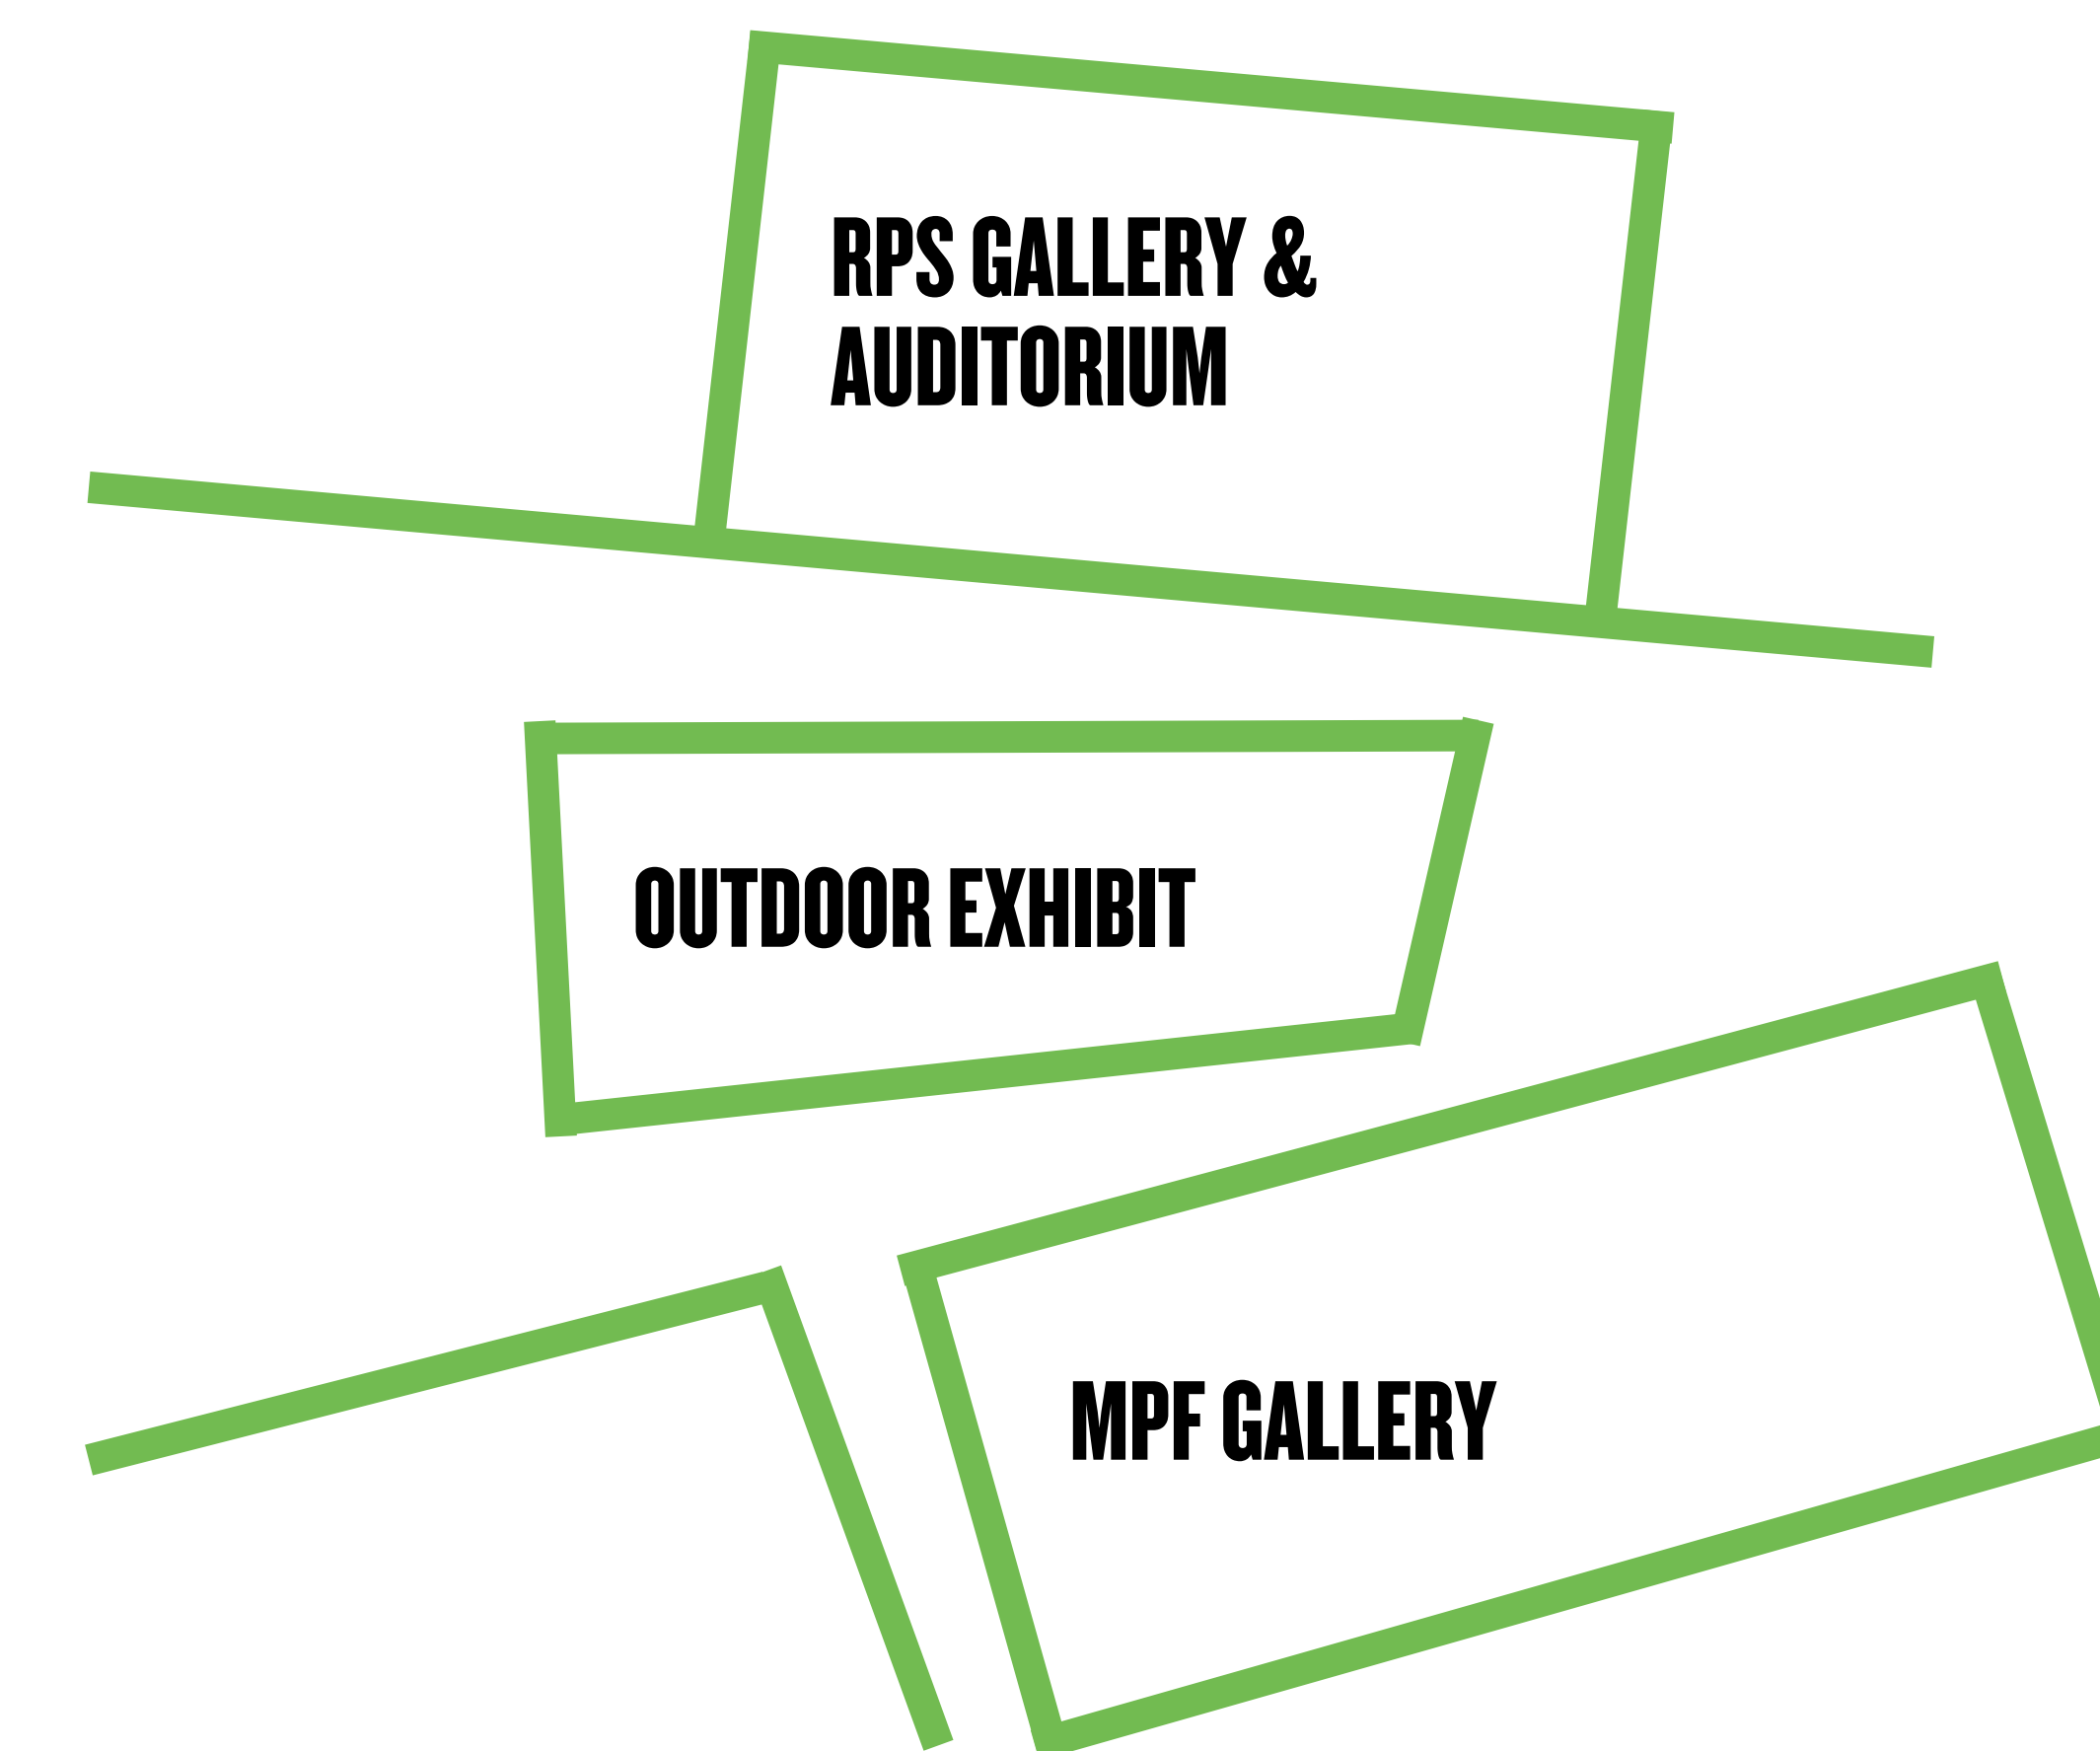

RPS AUDITORIUM // 13:45 - 14:45

Stories from the farmers reinventing the grain chain. Farmer Fred Price and baker Rosy Benson were photographed for We Feed The UK by Magnum photographer Lúa Ribeira. Together, they'll share their story of monoculture defiance: growing diverse wheat populations for resilience, as well as how the South West Grain Network is turning the grain chain on its head. Joining them is Katie Hastings from The Gaia Foundation's Seed Sovereignty Programme and Gerald Miles of the Llafur Ni network, sharing the revival of an ancient Welsh grain from the brink of extinction. Hodmedods' Nick Saltmarsh will add to the discussion with his tale of a UK beans and pulses revolution.

SEED DIVERSITY FOR RESILIENCE

RPS AUDITORIUM // 15:30 - 17:00

Dan Saladino, author of Eating to Extinction and much-loved presenter of BBC Radio 4's Food Programme, will join Indian 'Rice Warrior' Dr Debal Deb. Hailed as a seed hero internationally for his work preserving over 1400 varieties of rice from the hands of corporations, Debal works with farmers to protect their agricultural diversity and local resilience. Their talk marks the launch of a new short film featuring Dan meeting Debal on his farm in Orissa, with plenty of time for questions following its premiere.

ACTIVITIES

SEED SAVING

Seed detective Adam Alexander joins Gaia's Seed Sovereignty team for a workshop on seed saving. Get to grips with how to save seed in your own garden to improve the genetic diversity, local adaptation, resilience and deliciousness of your bounties.

POP-UP PORTRAITS EXHIBITION

To find our ten flagship We Feed The UK stories we went foraging for ideas throughout 2023. With the help of photographer Louis Little, we assembled a pop-up portrait studio at agroecology stomping grounds. The results paint a picture of an inspiring grassroots movement, deep-rooted and radical-minded.

PLANTING WORMS

Among community beds in Walsall, Neville Portas, of our third We Feed The UK story, has kindled organic, zero-waste allotments tended with no-dig gardening. He will share the joys of planting food and worms in new community planters between the two exhibition venues. Attendees can also get their hands dirty and build their own worm farm in a tin to take home.

LIVE POETRY

Expect appearances and live performances from the incredible Hot Poets, whose verses bring the ten We Feed The UK stories to life, occurring throughout the day.